Cherries Scamorza DeMagi

The scamorza cherries are the size of a walnut. Scamorza is a spun-paste cheese of whole pasteurised cow milk. The paste is like mozzarella paste, only drier. After the paste has been made it is rolled with a pin with wholes that cuts the paste into "cherries" all of the same size, they are first cooled and then cold-smoked (with Beechwood chips, below 18°C), so they can acquire the distinctive aroma and flavour. Can be eaten cold with tomatoes, green salad and any vegetable, however, for best results we recommend eating them warm, either warmed in an oven, microwave or a pan, just make sure they are served warm
